Begin 'advises' Mitterrand not to rebuild Iraqi plant

PARIS, Nov. 25 (A.P.) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, in a television interview broadcast today, urged France not to rebuild the Iraqi nuclear reactor destroyed last June in a raid by: Israeli aircraft. "May I call on President (Francois) Mitterrand: leave things as they are, do not reconstruct this reactor," Mr. Begin said in the interview. President Francois Mitterrand has said he is willing to rebuild the reactor, but under very stringent controls. Mr. Begin, saying he is resolved to keep Iraqi from "building an atomic bomb," called the situation "very dangerous. It would be hetter if France doeso't reconstruct the reactor," he said. "That is my advice."

Arab summit postponed indefinitely

FEZ, Nov. 25 (Agencies) — Morocco's King Hassan II today "postponed to a future date" the 12th Arab summit conference, hours after it opened apparently because of disagreement over the Saudi peace plan for the Middle East.

The Moroccan news agency announced King Hassan's decision hut gave no reasons. A highranking Moroccan official who requested he not be identified said King Hassan decided to postpone the meeting because the Arah leaders were "hopelessly dead-locked" over the Saudi peace

The news agency said the foreign ministers of the 21-nation Arab League were instructed to resume discussions to prepare another summit meeting to he convened at a later date, also in Morocco.

Less than an hour after the announcement. King Hassan made a nationwide television statement on his decision. "The summit has been postponed to a future date to be set by the foreign ministers," he said.

"The second stage of the conference will be beld in Morocco whenever the foreign ministers so "You have a right to ask why this action has been taken." King Hassan added. "The answer is that tbe problems before us are very weighty and very dangerous, and they have their repercussions. These problems represent a chain in which all the links are important, and the repercussions are therefore even more important. "The essential thing for us is to emerge with the right decision and procedures that can be applied." he continued. "I helieve this postponement shows that the Arabs do not merely react to events and do not merely follow their sentiments, hut that they use their judgement."

He ended his statement with a citation from a classic Arabic poem stating that "Wisdom comes before courage. Earlier today King Hassan opened the summit conference.

In his opening speech, King Hassan called for solidarity among the Arab nations and on crucial issues facing them and expressed hope that the meeting will come up with more adequate resolutions on major problems.

Eleven Arab heads of state and the PLO chairman were attending the summit hut nine other leaders sent representatives.

Among the absentees were Libyan leader Muammar Qadhafi, Syrian President Hafez Al Assad, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiri, Algerian President Chadli Benjedid, Sultan Qaboos of Oman, Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba, Mohammad Ould Haidalla of Mauritania and

King Hassan opened his statement with a report on decisions taken by the summit on the situation in Lebanon, immediately prior to the suspension.

"As you know, it was foreseen that there would be two conferences, one on Lehanon and the other on all other Arah affairs." the king said.

"During this session, we dis-cussed the Lehanese crisis, and we unanimously agreed on the recommendations (drawn up hy the foreign ministers) regarding Lebanon.

"The secretary general of the Arah League has been charged with studying and applying these recommendations in view of the fact that all Arab countries without exception have decided to support Lehanon and especially its southern territories," King Hassan continued "We support all the occupied territories and their peoples.

King Hassan did not spell out what decision were taken hy the foreign ministers, who spent several bours in closed session last Sunday discussing how to halt civil war and foreign interference in Student nurses at the Princess Muna College of Nursing are afforded very comfortable accommodation at the King Hussein Medical Centre, but the previlege is also offered to staff nurses working at the hospital. Accommodation is free for the student nurses, and very inexpensive for full-fledged nurses.

Nurses living in are also able to enjoy swimming pool and tennis court facilities, as well as other recreational facilities inside the medical centre complex.

The university hospital also has a comfortable, three-storey hostel only a few metres away from the main hospital building. It has a capacity of 300, but is housing 235 student ourses, staff nurses and nurses' aids at present. The students, all of whom are attending nurses at the hospital, are put up free of charge. Full-fledged nurses pay JD 17 out of their monthly salaries for board and lodging at the hospital — a small sum indeed compared to what they would have to pay for board and lodging outside the hospital.

The hostel also provides resident nurses with three meals a day. Supervisors have rooms of their own, while each staff nurse shares a room with one colleague. Student nurses live in one room to every three nurses.

The hostel has one hig dining room enjoying a good view of the hospital; a large lounge and TV room downstairs, where recre-arional and social functions are held, and several comfortable lounges and TV rooms on each of the floors, where the boarders can relax and entertain themselves. AMMAN, Nov. 25 - A photo and poster exhibition featuring the activities of the United Nations' Children's Fund (UNICEF) throughout the world is on display at the Haya Arts Centre until Monday, Nov. 29.

The exhibition, which was officially opened by Her Highness Princess Basma last Saturday, is the first of its kind in the region. After Jordan, it will travel to Saudi Arahia, the Yemeni Arab Republic and other Arah countries, UNICEF Representative in Jordan Hassan Shawareb told the Jordan Times.

Attractive greeting cards designed by world-famous artists. to suit all tastes and occasions, are on sale at the exhibition. Mr. Shawareb said that the proceeds will go towards financing UNICEF activities in Jordan. Also on sale are sweatshirts bearing the UNICEF insignia. and recordings of a special concert held during the International Year of the Child featuring such famous singers as Doooa Summers and Olivia Newton John, who donated their performances to UNICEF.

During its present aid cycle in Jordan, which will draw to a close by the end of 1981, UNICEF has contributed to "integrated development" in Jordan through two main projects. Mr. Shawareb

The first of these projects was the 'Allan community service centre, in cooperation with the Ministry of Social Development. The second was a project to supply water to the village community at Al Kitteh, during which UNICEF provided equipment and financed the training of community leaders, to enable them to participate in a health education campaign on the hygienic use of water.

Mr. Shawareb stressed that health education campaigns in such projects are considered by

Cabinet endorses agreements on Jordan-Yugoslavia relations

AMMAN, Nov. 25 (J.T.) — The cabinet today endorsed the mioutes of a Jordanian-Yugoslav joint committee meeting which was held in Belgrade on Nov. 19, on discussions of economic and scientific cooperation between Jordan and Yugoslavia.

The two sides agreed in the meetings on the diversification of goods exchanged between the two countries, and the establishment of a trade centre in each country to represent the other and encouraging the launching of joint ventures, particularly in projects pro-vided for in the new five-year development plan (1981-1985). The minutes also cover the development of hilateral cooperation in the construction of ports, roads, dams and industries, as well as in agriculture, tourism and mioing.

The cahinet, which met in regular session under the chairmanship of Acting Prime Minister

Adnan Ahu Odeh, also today endorsed a draft agreement with West Germany, under which the Ministry of Agriculture will receive a donation of DM 350,000 for the establishment of various installations in the Kamaliya afforestation project near Suweileh, west of here. The cahinet authorised Agriculture Minister Marwan Dudin to sign an agreement with West Germany on behalf of the Jordanian gov-

Also according to a cabinet decision, Engineer Ahmad Dakhqan, deputy director of the Natural Resources Authority (NRA), will travel to Abu Dhahi to attend an annual meeting of the Arah organisation for the development of mineral resources which will open on Dec. 11.

importance of creating qualified army commanders capable of sbouldering their responsibilities and serving their nation. He praised the Jordanian army, "which has followed in the steps of the Arab Hashemite Army, that had played a prominent role in the defence of the Arab Nation and safeguarding its soil."

Prince Hassan referred to the important role of the army that had helped establish the Emirate of Transjordan under the late King Abdullah Ibn Al Hussein, its effective contribution to and sacrifices in the Arah-Israeli wars and its defence of the Arah Nation, standing guard along the longest confrontation line with the enemy.

In his speech Prince Hassan congratulated the graduates, who had completed a one-year training course, and expressed appreciation of their instructors.

Towards the end of the ceremony, Prince Hassan distributed diplomas to the graduates.

The ceremony was attended by Court Minister Amer Khammash, Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces Lt. Gen. Sharif Zaid Ibn Shaker, Chief Chamberlain Prince Ra'd Ibn Zaid, Director of the Public Security Directorate Ma'moun Khalil, the commander of the Palestine Liberation Army stationed in Jordan, senior army officers and Arah ambassadors and military attaches

Contracts and condensers: Aqaba station aims for the year 2000

By Dominic Asquith Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN - In order to meet its future electricity needs at the least expense, the Jordan Electricity Authority (JEA1 is planning to build a seawater-cooled thermal power station at Aqaba, whose total capacity is expected to reach 1,540 megawatts by the year 2000. This will be connected to Amman by a 320-kilometre double circuit transmission line, designed for a 400-kilovolt capacity but initially operating at 132kv.

ine transmission line, for which the consulting engineer is the British firm Preece, Cardew and Rider, will be divided into three major contracts (conductors; insulators and accessories and towers, fittings and erection). The line should become operational before the end of 1986.

The development of the power station itself is conceived of as taking place in three stages. The first will involve the construction of two oil-fired steam units, each of a 130MW gross rated output: one being required late in 1985 and the other in the second quarter of 1986. The second stage, set for 1989-1990, will see the addition of two more units, but this time of 320MW each. The third stage, scheduled for the year 2000, will complete the process with the installation of two more 320 MW units, thus giving a total capacity of 1540MW.

The site chosen for the power. station lies 19 kilometres south of Aqaba Port and one kilometre inland, with the total land area allocated to the station plus switchgear and access to the sea covering 587,000 square metres. Ideally, since water for the condenser cooling will be drawn from the Gulf of Agaba, the power station should have been sited even closer to the shoreline than projected. which would reduce operational and administrative costs. erstandably, however, port and tourist facilities took precedence.

To avoid any possible env-ironmeotal ill-effects, the water heated by the condenser cooling process will be reduced in temperature by dilution, after discharge, so as to limit the tem-perature at the edge of the plume to 29 Degrees Centigrade, thus protecting Aqaba's coral reef from thermal impact.

Plant project supporters

to meet soon

AMMAN, Nov. 25 (J.T.) -Arab and international financing organisations who have been asked to support the Jordan Electricity Authority's (JEA's) Aqaha thermal power station project will hold a meeting here on Dec. 17 and 18, the Jordan Times has learned.

A JEA official said that during the first donors' meeting, beld here from April 29-May 2. participants agreed that it would be useful to hold a second meeting in Amman during the last quarter of 1981. The meeting will review progress and consider loan packaging and the financing plan for the power plant and the associated 400kilovolt Amman-Aqaba transmission line.

Invited to the meeting are the Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development, the Kuwait Fund for Arab Economic Development, Kreditanstalt Fur Wiederaufban (KFW) of West Germany, the Iraqi Fund for External Development, the International-Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the Saudi Arab Economic Development Fund. the Islamic Development Bank and the OPEC Fund.

Weighty problems

THE ARAB summit conference, postponed indefinitely after its first session in Morocco -- apparently because of differences over a Saudi Arabian blueprint for peace in the Middle East -- could not pass the first test of a new diplomacy that sought to bring peace to a region plagued by a 34-year-old conflict sparked with the creation of a Zionist state in Arab lands in 1948.

High on the agenda of the twelfth gathering of Arab heads of state since the late Egyptian President Jamal Abdul Nasser called the first Arab summit in 1964, was the eight-point plan for peace in the Middle East, proposed last August by Saudi Arabian Crown Prince.

The plan, on behalf of which the Saudi Arabian leadership undertook extensive lobbying, could or could not have been viewed as a major shift in Arab diplomatic policy. After four Middle East wars and a direct allout confrontation in Lebanon between the Palestinians and Israel, the Saudis might have thought they had come up with the first positive development in the Arab position. Earlier schemes to settle the dispute between Arab and Israeli - from the U.N. General Assembly's Partition Plan of 1947, to Security Council Resolution 242 of 1967, to the U.S.sponsored Camp David accords of 1978, have come from without the region, and have been rejected by one party or the other.

The Saudi proposal, which attempted to resolve the thorny question of the "right to exist" of all states in the region, was, possibly very earnestly, meant to be the first Arab-initiated alternative to the Americaninspired peace-keeping process.

While the positions of the summit participants on the plan-outright rejection by some, guarded welcome by others, indecision by a few, allout support by others - depicted inter-Arab disputes, the fact remains that, as King Hassan of Morocco put it, "the problems before us are very weighty and very dangerous, and they have their repercussions." Perhaps! But, the Saudi initiative had "positive" aspects which could have been agreed upon and "negative" ones which could have been debated, in the hope that a unified Arab position could have been reached.

ARAB PRESS COMMENTARY

Delays might prove fatal .

AL RA'I: The Fez summit conference is being held at a time when the Arabs more than ever used a unification of efforts to counter the Israeli practices aimed at liquidating the Arabs. It is too dangerous for the Arabs to postpone confronting enemy meas-

The call to unite ranks and joint Arab action has been heard for a long time. It is evident that the Fez summit is the only hope for the Arab masses. If the Arabs fail now to reach unity of ranks and joint action, negative repercussions are sure to result and our call on other peoples to solve our issue will be fruitless panting after a

Israel and its supporters have for long wagered on the belief that Arabs are incapable of reaching understanding among themselves. It is time for the Arabs to prove that this belief and wager are mere fallacies.

We believe that reaching a united stand on the issues to be discussed at the Fez summit must not be considered a miracle. We believe that Arab concord on these issues must not fail or be delayed because of some minor differences which have bored the Arab citizen. The Arab leaders undoubtedly realise the historic and pan-Arab responsibilities they have to shoulder. The Fez candles of hope are there waiting for somebody to light them.

Arab unity is the important issue

AL DUSTOUR: The Fez Arah summit conference is certainly the mos: important summit ever held in the Arab World. Whether the Arab leaders succeed or fail in reaching a unified Arah strategy for peace or war, the results will have far-reaching influence on the Arah future. Current regional and international developments make it imperative that the Arab leaders move in some direction.

The Middle East is witnessing an open conflict between the superpowers to strengthen their influence and grip on the people, resources and issues. The issue of going to war against Israel to liberate our people and regain our usurped lands needs very intricate calculations and commitment on the part of Arah states, particularly because Israel is proceeding with securing its presence in Palestine by building settlements, confiscating Arab lands and oppressing the Palestinian people inside the occupied territories. Israel is also doing its hest to undermine the Lehanese entity and structure. It is trying to break whatever unity is left among the Lenanese and the Palestinians. It is defying all the Arab states, provoking and mounting aggressive acts against

The Arab situation reflects suffering of a great deal. This makes one think of the possibilities of developing a better situation where good cooperation prevails.

The Arah Nation is looking forward to be liberated. The Arah people are looking up to their leaders to save them from chaos and from being lost and humiliated. It is the Palestine issue which claims their serious efforts. The Palestinian people are either dispersed or suffering from Israeli oppression. This people are about to renounce all promises, resolutions and flashy slogans. It is not important for the Arah leaders to either accept or reject the Saudi peace plan. What is important is that they should come up with a unified programme for their efforts and action on the political, economic, diplomatic and military plains. The most important thing is that they must be united in heart and soul. This is the real challenge facing the Arab leaders meeting in Fez.

RED & BLACK

Arabs and the International Monetary Fund

THERE ARE so many forums to discuss economic relations between developing countries and the developed, industrialised countries. Such discussions reached their peak in the October summit meeting at Cancun, Mexico.

Although the meeting was highly publicised, it only led to one major decision: the increase in the capital of the World Bank (IBRD) from $40 to $50 billion. Where the increase in the capital is going to come from is still open for speculation; but assuming that Arab oil-producing countries will foot a large chunk is not a remote assumption.

The twin of IBRD is the

International Monetary Fund

(IMF). This is an institution which specialises in short-term loans to offset temporary deficits in the halance of payments of member countries. The IMF has created a special loan facility in it where surplus countries lend deficit countries in amounts measured in Special Drawing Rights (SDRs).

Reviewing the SDR account. we find that Saudi Arabia alone lent this facility around $10 billion last year, and they are expected to extend another $5 hillion in the near future. All amounts that were extended to this facility by major industrialised countries barely reached $1.5 billion.

Voting in the International Monetary Fund is conducted economically, i.e. each country has votes commensurate to its contribution to the capital of the IMF. Since the contribution of Arah countries to the IMF's capital is small, their ability to exercise tangihle influence on its policies is low indeed. The amounts paid to the SDR facility do not enhance the voting power.

Under such an arrangement. the Arahs in the IMF and the World Bank do not have biting teeth to pass the decisions which they want to see passeo. For example, the Palestine Liheration Organisation [PLO] was backed by Arahs and many other countries to ohtain an observer status in the IMF & IBRD hut no avail. Practically, the USA which dominates around 25 per cent of the capital of each has a veto power over such a decision which cannot be passed without 80 per cent of the votes.

In his speech to the joint IBRD-IMF annual meetings on behalf of the Arabs, Dr. M. Sa'id Nahulsi, Jordan's Central Bank, governor, put strong emphasis on the PLO issue. He stressed that Arabs are deeply disappointed by the way this matter (PLO observer status) has been handled. He also asserted that Arab countries did not only view the issue as a principle to adhere to, but also

In a previous paragraph of his speech, Dr. Nabulsi pointed out that Arab countries contribute about four per cent of their GNPs as international aid, while developed countries shell out only 0.5 per cent.

This asymmtry between contribution and sharing in the decision-making must be resolved. Otherwise, Arah money is being snatched away to enhance the power of those who do not see eye-to-eye with the Arabs on some of the basic issues which rank high among Arab priorities.

Expecting tough talk on TNF

Benn relegated to parliament's back benches

By Barry May

LONDON - Defiant and unrepentant, leftwinger Tony Benn is down not out after being thrown off the opposition's front bench in the British Parliament.

The real loser may turn out to be his Labour Party leader, Michael Foot.

Mr. Foot put his authority on the line by recommending that the party's 245 members of parliament deny Mr. Benn their vote in elections for the shadow cabinet, the team which would form the nucleus of a Labour govemment Some 66 MPs ignored him -not enough to give Mr. Benn one of 15 shadow cabinet seats, but still a significant minority.

Critics of the Labour leader interpreted the 66 votes as a declaration of no confidence in After the ballot, party sources said Mr. Foot's problems in trying to bring Mr. Benn to heel were far from over. Mr. Benn, a soft-spoken former peer turned strident champion of radical socialism, can now range wide and free from the back beaches of the House of Commons in his campaign to see that the Labour Party remains committed to leftwing policies.

Brynmor John, Lahour's

right-wing defence spokesman in parliament and one of those elected to the front bench team, commented: "The Benn vote must be a worry for both Michael Foot and the shadow cabinet."

Another right-wing labour MP, Jeffrey Thomas, said: "The result indicates that Benn still has influence on the councils of the Labour Party: It augurs no good for the

"It was a good solid vote. It was twice what I expected," he said, adding: "Michael Foot is now imprisoned in a very right-wing shadow cabinet."

With party morale low over continued ideological wrangling and poor public opinion ratings, the rebuff to Mr. Foot by more than one quarter of the Labour MPs came at a had time.

A Gallup poll in the Daily Telegraph newspaper showed that only 16 per cent of people questioned thought the 68-year-old pacifist campaigner was proving a good leader of the party -- the worst record of any Labour leader since World War II.

The Times of London recently examined the internal feuding which has resulted in Labour's lurch to the Left and pronounced.

"Mr. Foot presides over this depressing state of affairs rather like a pilot on the flight deck of his plane who has not been told that a hijack is taking place."

The issue that brought Mr. Benn's battle for a position of influence in the party to a head was one dear to his heart as a former energy minister.

He stated in parliament that the next Labour government would renationalise without compensation all those North Sea oil assets which the present Conservative government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher intends to sell.

This directly contradicted offi-cial party policy which provides for compensation and which had been enunciated by Labour's energy spokesman, Mr. Merlyn Rees, in the same House of Commons debate only hours earlier. Mr. Foot rehuked Mr. Benn for confusing party policy and creating distractions from the central purpose of opposing the government and winning the next unsuccessfully challenged the right-of-centre former defence and finance minister, Mr. Denis Healey, for the deputy leadership earlier this year. The power hid was widely seen as a potential threat to Mr. Foot himself, and the Labour leader recognised the danger. He promptly invited Mr. Benn to challenge him directly for the leadership.

Mr. Benn declined, but his relations with the party leader suffered nonetheless, and at one point Mr. Foot described Mr. Benn's approach as the politics of the kindergarten.

Nevertheless Mr. Benn remains' a contender for the Labour leadership when Mr. Foot -- wbo recently declared he was "a paidup member of the sick and tired hrigade" -- bows out.

Mr. Benn was known as the reluctant peer when he fought a legal battle to renounce the title Viscount Stansgate and the right he inherited with it from his father to sit in the House of Lords. Married to a wealthy American of base metals have been sliding on world markets as fears of deepening recession eut demand, but analysts still predict a recovery next year. Copper and lead fell on the London Metal Exchange (LME) on Monday to their lowest levels for six months, although most metals rallied yesterday on news of lower U.S. interest rates. Aluminium, whose main con-

In New York, copper for delivcry at a future date hit new lows in virtually all contracts. Brokers at New York's Commodity Exchange (Comex) blamed the. lacklustre futures market on the gloomy outlook for copper demand and the absence of any news to relieve fears of a deepening U.S. recession.

But the Commodity Research Unit (CRU), an independent body, remained confident that prices of most of industry's basic raw materials would rise next

"The timing will be later than we originally thought," a CRU spokesman said in London, "and will come in the second or third quarter of next year, with the upturn of economic activity in the U.S. and Europe.

"Japan is still on a growth tack, and its consumption of metals will continue to increase," he added.

CRU believes that even a slight. increase in demand could bave a significant effect on metals markets because stocks held by manufacturers and fabricators are low. particularly in relation to_stock levels held during the 1975-76 recession.

It believes prices are also set to rise because low profitability and

FAO's budget rise approved, despite bill-footers objection Another British official said

ROME, Nov. 25 (R) – A controversial rise in the biennial budget of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organisation (FAO) was approved today but the countries who will pay for most of it voted against the increase.

The rise, from $278 million in 1980-1981 to $368 million in 1982-1983, won support from 110 countries at the FAO conference here, with five votes against and nine abstentions.

The five countries who cast a "no" vote were some of FAO's biggest donors-the United States, Britain, West Germany, Japan and Switzerland.

"The fight against hunger will not be won simply by increasing administrative expenditures," they said in a joint statement also approved by Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and New Zealand.

LÓNDON, Nov. 25 (R) — Share prices closed slightly firmer although below earlier highs in moderate trading, dealers said. At 1500 the F.T. index was up 4.3 at 524.3.

The market opened strongly in response to gains on Wall Street following the cut in prime rate by Chase Manhattan, but later encountered profit taking, dealers said.

Leaders generally ended with gains of between a penny and 5p as in Guest Keen, ICI, Tube, Vickers, Glazo and Bowater. Gold shares closed with gains of up to 400 cents following the rally in the bullion price.

Government bonds elosed with gains of up to % point in long maturities and little changed at the shorter end. Dealers said the early firm trend was dampened by supplies of the short exchequer 1986 and long treasury 2004/08 stocks. In tobaccos, Rothmans closed up 11/2p at 801/2p after 83p following interim results above market expectations, and Alfred Dunhill was up 10p at 238p, also following interims.

Banks and insurances closed firmer where changed, and oils were narrowly mixed.

Dallas Mavericks continue losing streak

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (A.P.) — Things haven't changed all that much for the Dallas Mavericks.

Last season, their first in the National Basketball Association, the Mavericks had losing streaks of 12 and 15 games. This season, they were supposed to be a whole lot better. Supposed to be.

The Mavericks current losing streak has reached serious proportions. They are seriously challenging last season's marks of ineptitude. The Los Angeles Lakers 125-110 victory in Dallas was their eighth straight last night, but the loss was the 11th straightfor Dallas.

"We played about as good as we are capable of playing in the first half yet we were down by 12." Dallas coach Dick Motta said. "We just got beat by a superior team ... they have a winning team ... the only thing that will stop them is if they self-destruct." Which seems to be what the Mavericks are all about.

Rookies Mark Aguirre. Rolando Blackman and Jay Vincent, the building blocks of the Mavs future, combined for 56 of Dallas' points, but as has been the case in the 1-12 season, they were simply overmatched.

In other games, the Indiana Pacers beat the New York Knicks 127-112. The Washington Bullets defeated the Golden State Warriors 107-88. The Atlanta Hawks nipped the Cleveland Cavaliers 94-92 in overtime. The Milwaukee Bucks beat the Detroit Pistons 103-95. The New Jersey Nets stopped the Houston Rockets 102-84.

While the Mavs continue to have all sorts of problems, the Lakers are red-hot, with Riley and co-coach Jerry West undefeated in three games since taking over for Paul Westhead.

Kareem Abdul-Jahhar scored 25 points in just 26 minutes and Feature film at 10:30 p.m.

HOW-I SPENT MY SUMMER VACATION

The film relates the story of a young man who is exposed to a murder attempt by two rich people for revealing their secrets. The film abounds with events and adventures which will hold the viewer's attention to the very end.

Jamal Wilkes added 19 points in 21 minutes as seven Lakers were in double figures.

The biggest question surrounding the Lakers is just how long Riley will remain the coach and if he's given the job permanently, how long West will remain by his side.

Pacers 127, Knicks 112

Johnny Davis, recently re-inserted into the starting lineup, scored 34 points and Louis Orr had a career-high 23, including seven in the final 1:35 after the struggling Knicks cut an 11-point deficit to three. New York, losers of five of six, was led by Maurice Lucas with 22 points and 20 rebounds.

Bucks 103, Pistons 95

Bob Lanier scored 14 of his season-high 24 points in the second half while Quinn Beckner added 24 and Sidney Moncrief 23. Detroit was led by John Long with 21 points. Piston Rookie Isiah Thomas, who had been scoring 21.8 points a game, missed 10 of his first 12 shots and was held to 17 points. The Bucks ran off an eight-point spree in the fourth quarter to win it.

Bullets 107, Golden State 88

Former Warrior John Lucas scored 24 points and had 10 assists and Rookie Jeff Ruland had 23 points to lead Washington. Obtained from the Warriors in October, Lucas enjoyed his best scoring night of the season in helping break his former teammates' five-game winning streak. The five-year veteran made 10 of 15 field goal attempts and did most of his scoring in the pivotal first and third quarters. Golden State got a team-high 15 points from Purvis Short.

Hawks 94, Cavaliers 92

John Drew, Eddie Johnson and Dan Roundfield scored as the Hawks, on a four-game winning streak, outscored the Cavs 6-4 in overtime. Cleveland lost a chance to win in regulation when $700,000-a-year centre James Edwards missed a five-foot jumper with one second left Rory Sparrow led Atlanta with 18 points and Mike Mitchell had 17 for the Cavaliers.

Nets 162 Rockets 84

Otis Birdsong scored 21 points to help the Nets break a threegame losing streak with their first road victory of the season. New Jersey had lost 11 straight on the road dating back to March. The Nets opened up a nine-point lead in the second quarter and stayed in control despite Moses Malone's 24 points.

Soviet men set to defend title at world gymnastics

MOSCOW, Nov. 25 (A.P.) — Soviet men are favoured to defend the team title tomorrow at the World Gymnasties Championships, but Japan and China should make it a battle for the first medals of the meet.

Optional exercises in six events will decide the contest, with both Asian teams hoping to use their formidable free-style skills to challenge the Soviets at the Olympic sports arena.

Led by 19-year-old newcomer Yuri Korolev and veteran Alexander Dityatin, the Soviets scored 293.60 points in the opening compulsory exercises yesterday to take a comfortable lead.

Japan was runnerup with 291.50 points and East Germany placed third with 290.20, elosely followed by China with 287.00.
U.S. men, disappointed by low marks in the horizontal bar, parallel bars and floor exercises, were hoping to obtain fifth place, coach Abie Grossfelt said. "The Chinese and German coaches said they thought all our gymnasts were marked too low in the horizontal bar, and I felt a couple of our guys were underscored in the parallel bars and floor exercises," Grossfelt told the Associated Press.

He contended that Soviet bloc judges had showed bias in favour of the hosts and other East European teams in the compulsories.

"I think the Soviets will win."

around finals Final The Soviet with the lead ahead of Germany in pulsories today.

They are a little more consistent than the Japanese. The Chinese should take the bronze if the judges mark correctly," he said.

The top six teams compete in one group, with the best five stores from the six-member squads counting for the final standings.

The Soviets defeated Japan for the team championship at the 1979 world championships in Ft. Worth, Texas, and the United States took the bronze medal. East Germany was fourth and China, returning to world competition after two decades, was Korolev, with a high mark of 9.90 and nothing less than 9.75, paced the Soviets to five of the top seven places in the individual point standings. Dityatin, the allaround title defender, was runnerup with 50.80., he was slightly handicapped by a leg injury.

Japan's top scorer, Nobiyuki Kijatani, was sixth in the compulsories and Chinese Acek Tong Fei and Lin Ning were ninth and

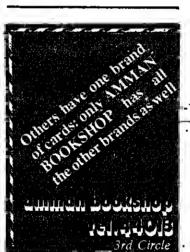

The three best Americans were Bart Connor in 15th, Peter Vidar in 27th and Jim Hartung in 29th. The 36 best gymnasts in the team event qualify for the all-

The Soviet women's team took the lead ahead of China and East Germany in the team compulsories today.

Swansea City suffers from World Cup blues

LONDON. Nov. 25 (A.P.) — Swansea City, newly promoted and the surprise success of the English soccer ehampionship, is suffering from World Cup blues.

Five Swansea players made the long trip to Tbilisi with Wales for a World Cup qualifying game against the Soviet Union. Wales was almost certain eliminated from the tournament and the Swansea men had a nightmare journey home, spread over two days and nights.

Swansea for the moment. The Welsh team crashed 0-4 to Manchester City last Saturday and was built to a 0-0-draw at home by Brighton last night? But although Swansea bas slipped it is still very much in the title race.

Now british fans wait to see if manager John Toshack, former Sometimes you can have too much of a good thing. Get too much of a good thing. Get rid of excess as fast as you can! North's raise to three no trump was well reasoned.

With a hand that rated to produce five tricks, his nine points were a lot hetter than many 11 or 12 point hands.
West led the king of

many 11 or 12 point hands.

West led the king of diamonds, and the spots in clubs were unfortunate.

Unless clubs were 2-2 or the .
jack of clubs was singleton, declarer would have to win the fourth round of clubs in his hand and he would have no entry back to the table to enjoy the long club. It seemed that declarer might have to rely on the heart linesse for his ninth trick. But declarer found a far more elegant method to secure his contract.

Declarer allowed the king of diamonds to win the first trick and won the continuation with the ace. He cashed the ace and king of cluhs in the hope that the suit would break or that the jack would drop, but neither happened. However, declarer did not mind. He simply led a diamond from dummy and discarded a cluh from his hand!

The defenders were helpless. West could cash his diamonds or not, as he saw fit. No matter what he did, declarer had nine tricks via two spades, a heart, a diamond and five clubs.

There are a few points of interest in declarer's technique. Note that it is necessary to hold up one round of diamonds. If you win the first diamond and then exit with a diamond later, you can be defeated if the suit breaks 6-1. Also note that it won't help the defenders to shift to a spade at trick two. Declarer wins and cashes the ace of diamonds, then proceeds as above.

England reaches victory target through 2 sixes

AHMEDABAD, India, Nov. 25 (A.P.) — England raced to an exciting five-wicket victory over India today in the first of the three one-day internationals of its current tour.

Set to score 157 runs in 46 overs, England reached the winning target off two consecutive sixes by former captain Ian Botham with two overs and a ball to spare.

When Botham came to bat England needed 31 runs from the five remaining overs and Indian captain Sunil Gavaskar placed seven fielders around the fence to restrict the scoring to singles.

The spread out fielding, however, did not check the aggressiveness of Botham, who tried to lift every ball over the fence and was dropped once by Randhir Singh.

After the poor batting of the Indian team, England had appeared headed for an easy win. However, the visitors lost four top batsmen when they had made only 61 runs.

Captain Keith Fletcher and Mike Gatting, however, stabilised the English innings with a 65-run fifth wicket stand. The partnership was ended by spinner Dilip Doshi who beat Fletcher with a ball that kept low.

Medium pacer Roger Binny, a last minute replacement for Kapil Dev, who is recovering from a torn muscle, wrecked the early English innings, taking the prized wiekets of Graham Gooch. Geoff Cook and David Gower.

With some intelligent bowling, Doshi and another Spinner, Ravi Shastri, succeeded in restricting England's run rate.

Pacer Madan Lal took the first wicket when he trapped Geoff Boycott, the most prolific English batsman so far in the series, legbefore-wicket for five.

Earlier in the day, the Indian batting collapse was stemmed temporarily by an elegant, 46-run knock of Dilip Vengsarkar.

orchids have turned up in Europe with no roots, an obvious sign that they were clipped in the wild, then placed in the pots.

Even Indian citizens require a special permit to enter the province. hut smugglers have still managed to make contact with its tribal people, msoy of whom use orchids as personal decoration and are completely unaware of their market value.

They collect orchids from the wild and sell them for a paltry 10 rupees ($1.00) per armful, or barter them for a bottle of rum. Smugglers can transport the sturdy blossoms in cloth sacks with Orchid fever hit the West in the middle of the last century, about the time Asian Lady Slipper orchid Paphiopedilum Fairrieanum, a Himalayan variety. suddenly turned up at an annual flower show in Britain. Known as "the lost orchid", it had been thought to have vanished from the planet and large rewards had been offered for it.

Since then orchids have gained steadily in popularity with both collectors and cultivators and as cut flowers, displacing native hlooms in bridal bouquets, corsages and wreaths.

For years, Indian botanists and foresters watched the depletion of their orchids with little coocern. India has over 1,300 known species, hut taxonomic studies of orchid-rich areas are fragmeotary.

Protection of orchid habitat and control of commercial exploitation are crucial to orchid conservation. India has signed the Convention on the International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora, (CITES), which lists all species of orchids in its appendices. The trade is supposed to be strictly cootrolled, but flourishes illegally.

Borders in the remote Himalayas are open to overland smuggling; false papers are easy to come hy and key European nations such as the Netherlands and Belgium have not signed CITES. #### JORDAN ELECTRICITY AUTHORITY GENERAL PROCUREMENT NOTICE

The Jordan Electricity Authority (JEA) will be issuing hidding documents for equipment and works which are being prepared by its consultant engineers for the Aqaba Power Project to be implemented during the period 1982

The project consists of the following components: (a) Agaba Thermal Power Station

A seawater-cooled system power station at Aqaba with its first stage to be commissioned in 1986, consisting of two 130 MW oil-fuelled generating units, together with the necessary accessories, switchyard and civil works, which would be grouped into four major contracts. The preliminary expected dates to be issued to hidders are as

(1) Civil works - To qualified bidders, during March 1982. (Prequalification documents were issued to bidders and were received for study on September 16, 1981)

(ii) Turbine generator island - During December, 1981.

(iii) Boiler island - During January, 1982. (iv) Switchyard island - During January, 1982.

(b) Aqaba-Amman Transmission Line

A 400 KV double circuit transmission line. Aqaha-Amman, about 320 KM long, to be initially operated at 132 KV. It would he grouped into three major contracts and the expected date of issue to bidders is as follows:

- During June, 1982. (i) Conductors (ii) Insulators During June, 1982.

(iii) Towers and erection - During June, 1982. It is expected that only internationally competent firms with ample experience in this type of works, done outside their owo country, will participate in this tender.

Arah and international development funds will participate in financing this project. Procurement will be subject to the terms and conditions of the respective lending Bidding documents for any of the contracts will be available later from the addresses below for a nonrefundable fee of JD 60 to 200 or US $180 to 600, payable to JEA or the Consultant Engineers, for each set of contract documents consisting of 2 copies each. Tenders will be advertised when available.

Polish shopkeepers cancel strike but students go on

WARSAW, Nov. 25 (A.P.) — Shopkeepers fearful of angry consumers won official promises of better police protect and cancelled strike plans today, but thousands of oil workers, students and farmers remained on strike.

A spokesman for the shopkeepers said that all-night talks with government and parliament officials produced an agreement cancelling a threatened strike. The shopkeepers apparently won better police protection and promises of quick responses to calls for help when angry shoppers besiege their stores.

Officials representing the sbopkeepers told a news conference yesterday that at least three people had died during such incidents and that dozens had been beaten by shoppers angered by shortages of goods.

One clerk had died of a heart attack, another had been trampled and a third had died during an

U.N. vote shows support for Timor declining

UNITED NATIONS, Nov. 25 (A.P.) — The U.N. General Assembly yesterday passed a resolution favouring independence for East Timor by the smallest vote yet -- 54-42 with 46 abstentions.

The result showed a gradual erosion of support for the Fretilin Independence Organisation and a gradual increase of backing for Indonesia, which annexed the neighbouring east half of the island of Timor in 1976 the year after Portuguese administrators fled amid civil disorders.

Portugal, Greece, Cyprus and lceland were the only non-Communist European countries voting for the resolution in the assembly. The Soviet Union, China and Communist countries generally also voted for it, along with Iran, Vanuatu and many in Africa and Latin America. The latter included Brazil and Mexico.

Those voting against it included Indonesia, the Philippines, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Japan, India, Iraq, Jordan, Syria, Kuwait, Bahrain, Oman, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, Egypt, Sudan, Turkey, Australia, New Zcaland, the United States, El Salvador, Argentina, Chile, Col-

WASHINGTON, Nnv. 25 (A.P.) — A sharp swing to the left by Nicaragua's revolutionary government is raising the bility of the first U.S. military action in Latin America since marines landed in the Dominican Republic 16 years ago. High-level discussions about a possible military move in Nicaragua, U.S. officials say, have been accelerated in recent weeks after the Sandinista regime showed little interest in negotiating their differences with Washington.

Officials refuse to discuss the military options being conaidered hut the atrategy regarded as most realistic is a navul blockade to interdict Soviet-bloc weapons flows to Nicaragua.

But the stakes facing the administration are high. No official doubts that a decision to impose a naval blockade would touch off a wave of anti-American protests in Latin America, Europe and else

U.S. callboys alleged to be security threat

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (A.P.) -NBC news reported yesterday that federal authorities in Washington are investigating the sale of information that might enable foreign agents to blackmail highly-placed (customers) of male prostitution rings.

The report said one unidentified male prostitute whose customers, according to NBC news, included a congressman, dipllomats and American military officers was "approached by Soviet agents and met with a Soviet colonel in Washington to discuss homosexuals in the government and in the military.

The report quoted the unidentified "call boy" as saying, "information is being collected, being systematically collected, heing systematically filtered to other places, not just the Soviets either.

The FBI declined to comment last evening on the report, which identified none of the alleged eus-

Moscow may endorse Zero Option

By Charles Lambelin

thinks

NATO

BRUSSELS, Nov. 25 (R) Despite Soviet rejection, NATO diplomats believe Moscow may still come to accept the "Zero Option" missile solution offered by President Reagan.

But they think there is no chance Soviet negotiators will agree to bargain on a zero-level basis as an opening position when U.S.-Soviet arms talks start in Geneva next Monday.

The Zero Option, proposed by Mr. Reagan last week, would mean the scrapping of existing Soviet European-based mediumrange missiles in exchange for the halting of NATO plans to deploy new U.S. missiles in two years'

The projected 572 new U.S. weapons would alter NATO capabilities radically by making it possible for the first time to hit key targets in the Soviet Union with midrange missiles based in Western Europe.

Rejection of the Zero Option will not mean deadlock or failure of the Geneva talks since the United States will not present it on a "take it or leave it" hasis, officials said.

Washington's position, worked out with and backed by Europeanallies, is to go down the reduction road as far as Moscow is ready to take up the challenge, they said. Western Europe has a vital interest in the negotiations. While previous U.S.-Soviet arms talks dealt with intercontinental systems -- Strategic Arms Limitation Talka (SALT) -these will cover weapons which threaten Western Europe directly. The outcome will affect the size of NATOs controversial missile deployment plan.

Adopted in 1979 to counter a build-up in Soviet SS-20 missiles. the plan provides for 108 Pershing-2 and 464 Cruise missiles to be deployed in Belgium, Britain, West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands, starting in late

At the same time NATO offered the Soviet Union talks to limit medium-range missiles on both sides. The talks will be limited to the two nations in actual control of the weapons.

The United States and its 14 NATO allies say they want reductions and an equitable halance at the lowest possible level -- zero ideally.

Soviet aims at Geneva are unknown to the West. NATO diplomats assume Moscow will seek to keep what the West regards as a regional imbalance heavily favouring the Soviet Union.

They believe Moscow's main aim is to stop the planned deployment of the new U.S. missiles and that Mr. Brezhnev may be ready to make concessions if he can achieve this:

The West says Moscow has altered nuclear balance since 1977 by installing about 270 mobile, highly accurate SS-20s, each with three independently targetable warheads.

The Soviet answer is that the SS-20 programme seeks only to modernise ageing SS-4 and SS-5 missiles and is needed to counter U.S. nuclear arms in and around Enrope as well as French and British nuclear forces, Moscow says the new U.S. missiles will create a lop-sided balance because they will be capable of hitting the Soviet Union while medium-range Soviet missiles cannot reach U.S. territory.

The United States wants the Geneva talks to focus first on land-based medit arn-range missiles - the SS-20 's and the 350 SS-4s and SS-5s a gainst the projected Pershings a nd Cruises, and preferably to scrap them all.

While NATO he alids it would be too complicated to include all weapons at the start, Moscow apparently wants to expand the talks to cover al 1 non-strategic nuclear arms capab I e of hitting the Soviet Union.

This would inch 1 de U.S. "forward hased syste ans" such as hombers based in Britain and missile-carrying sul : marines.

Washington wa nts to leave these weapons for a 1 second stage, after agreement ( m land-based missiles has been a cached.

The second hun tle is how to agree on counting. According to Moscow there is already rough parity. Mr. Brezh nev says the Soviet Union has 9 75 "Euromissiles" against 986 · for NATO countries. This breakdown is bothy contested by NATO e xperts. President Reagan spoke last week of a six-to-one Soviet ac ivantage.

NATO experts think Mr. Brezhnev reached t he 986 figure for NATO by counting 170 U.S. F-111 bombers base ect in Britain, 300 F-4 phantoms in various West European countries, 60 A-6 and A-7 aircraft on ca nriers in the Mediterranean, 1130 shorterrange Pershing-1s, 410 Poseidon missiles on U.S. subi marines, and French and Briti sh nuclear weapons. His own total of 97. 5 is helieved to include 350 SS-4s; and SS-5s, 170 SS-20s in the Eu ropean part of the Soviet Union 1, and 455 Backfire, Blinder a nd Badger bombers.

NATO experts say / it is misleading to count F-4, A-6 and A-7 aircraft which cannot reach the Soviet Union and get back, while leaving out hundreds of Soviet Fitter, Flogger and Fencer planes and Golf class submarines in the Bal-

The United States last week counted 560 U.S. nuclear medium-range systems against 3,825 for the Soviet Union.

Besides launeher numbers, the United States intends to negotiate on warheads and their destructive power. Soviet tallies usually leave out warheads, ignoring the three separate nuclear tips carried on each SS-20.

A third problem concerns geography. NATO officials say that if U.S. weapons are withdrawn from Europe they must recross the Atlantic. If SS-20s are pulled back to the Asian part of the Soviet Union, their 5,000 kilometre range can still carry them to most of Western Europe.

For this reason the United States intends to negotiate "globally" -- taking into account all medium-range Soviet missiles including those targeted against China or Japan.

The SS-20s are transportable. and Western experts say they can he easily moved to face either West or East.

NATO officials say U.S. negotiators will resist Soviet attempts to include French and British nuclear deterrent forces in the negotiations.

Moscow has not asked for limits on the French and British forces -about 110 weapons each - but is likely to demand a special quota of SS-20s to compensate, the officials said.

The Soviet Union is also expected to insist on keeping SS-20s in the Eastern part of the country to counter China.

Moscow allegedly trying to replace Afghan leader

(A.P.) — The Kremlin has put out feelers about the possibility of replacing Afghan President Babrak Karmal with someone more acceptable to nationalists in Afghanistan and to that country's neighbours, Asian diplomatic sources report.

The sources, speaking to reporters privately and not for attribution, said Pakistan government officials had been approached through third parties to suggest to the Kremlin the names of Afghan political leaders who might achieve internal and international respectability.

The implication, according to the sources, is that a friendly, stable and internationally recognised regime in Kabul could provide the Soviets with a way out of the quagmire of protracted and costly military engagement that has derailed detente with the West and muddied Moscow's relations with the Third World.

The Asian sources said the ### UNITED NATIONS, Nov. 25 Pakistanis were unwilling to suggest specific candidates to replace Mr. Karmal, fearing that their endorsement would be a "kiss of death." Rather, the

Pakistan's Deputy Foreign Minister Shah Nawaz told reporters the U.N. approach has cleared away much of the procedural impediments to negotiations, but the substantive issues remain to be
